

Editorial policy of «Vestnik of Saint Petersburg University. Medicine»

ISSN: 1818-2909

Editor-in-chief: P. K. Yablonskiy

1. Aim of the Journal is to form steady informational platform of specialized medical knowledge, uniting fundamental academic researches with advanced clinical practice.

Aims of the journal are the following: 1) presentation of the novel scientific and applied information in medicine; 2) reflecting modern trends in medical science development; 3) provision publishing platform for broad professional medical spheres in different research directions – from practical healthcare to well-known scientific Russian and foreign communities.

2. Uniqueness of the Journal consists in publication of papers at the interface of advanced academic fundamental medical science and modern practical achievements of scientists and specialists from different countries, as well as in the priority the provided works, carried out, among the others, at the interface of several scientific branches in medical, medical-biological spheres and other fundamental scientific directions.
3. The Journal publishes worked performed by Russian scientists from various medical organizations, universities, scientific institutes, including medical, dental faculty and faculty of medical technologies of Saint-Petersburg State University, as well as results of foreign medical organizations researches and universities of CIS countries and non-CIS countries, which cover the main spheres of fundamental and applied medicine.
4. The Journal publishes the following types of papers:
 - Containing original, not published earlier researches of Russian and foreign scientists;
 - Containing results of joint projects implementation with foreign sciences, scientists of Saint-Petersburg State University and other Russian universities;
 - Papers of the leading Russian and foreign scientists prepared on the basis of their reports made at All-Russian Conferences with participation of foreign scientists by decision of editorial board and by agreement of Organizational Committee of these Conferences;
 - Survey articles;
 - Informational materials (anniversary edition and others).
 - Advertising makes up no more than 5% of the journal content.
5. Leading specialists of Saint-Petersburg University and other universities of Saint-Petersburg and other cities are involved on a voluntary basis as experts (reviewers). These experts, as a rule, are professors, doctors of medical / biological sciences. Expert's selection is performed by editorial board members, supervising respective directions and by editor-in-chief and approved at the editorial board meetings.
6. In their activity editorial board are governed by provisions of the Journal Editorial ethics and provisions of reviewing.

7. Periodicity of the Journal issues – every three months.
8. The Journal is included into the list of the leading reviewed scientific journals and editions, recommended by State Higher Attestation Commission of Russian Department of Education and Science for publishing main scientific results of thesis in medicine on doctor and candidate of science degrees.
9. The Journal is indexed in scientific electronic library eLIBRARY.ru and included into International scientific informational resources EBSCO, EastView, Ulrich's Periodicals Directory.